Happy holidays!

Believe it or not, your child's winter break nearly marks the halfway point of the school year. That's one year closer to adulthood, a high school diploma and the start of college.

Are you on track with your college savings? You've already taken the first step in creating a college savings plan. However, regular contributions are an important component in helping you work toward your savings goal. Stay on track by setting up an automatic contribution plan or making a contribution.

Further, I encourage you to utilize the educational tools and programs that you find in this newsletter.

Thank you for investing in your KESPT account and your child. Enjoy your holiday season.

—Craig Parkin, Program Director, TIAA-CREF Tuition Financing, Inc.

Making a contribution to their college savings may be the best gift you can give this holiday season. The more money you contribute, the more likely you'll be prepared to meet those rising college costs.

Fun Activities for the Holiday Break

Just because school's out doesn't mean that the fun has to wait for the New Year.

Winter break is an excellent time to introduce your child to the local library. Chances are your library has exciting activities planned throughout the break.

For fun around the house, bring the winter wonderland inside by making your own snowmen. How? Just mix 2 cups of mild, powdered laundry detergent with ½ cup of water. Then, let your imagination run wild with whatever materials you have available. Learn more at FamilyFun.com.

For a more involved project, and one that could last the entire holiday vacation, try building a gingerbread house. It's fun and delicious!

If there's snow on the ground and you're willing to brave the cold, hit the local sledding hill. Not sure where that is? Many golf courses permit sledding, but be sure to ask first. Otherwise, your local hardware store will be able to outfit you with a sled and direct you toward the best place to use it.
